Australian Turntable Company

Company Overview

Australian Turntable Company

leads the world in the provision of rotating manufacturing solutions. Whether for manufacturing, construction, exhibition or residential and industrial property markets, we pride ourselves on our service excellence and ability to work creatively with customers to develop and implement successful rotational solutions for their organisations.

A family owned business founded by Paul Chapman in 1987, Australian Turntable Company has a long history of successful projects both in Australia and internationally. From revolving restaurants in Dubai, Qatar and the world's largest revolving restaurant in Iran. Australian Turntable Company has supplied exhibition and showroom turntables to all of the major motor car manufacturers including Ford, Toyota, BMW and Rolls Royce. From exhibition turntables for the International Motor Show, to truck turntable solutions for Coles Supermarket chain, Australian Turntable Company provides its technology to many of the world's largest organisations.

Our range of products and services covers a broad spectrum of movement systems including:

- truck turntables
- car turntables
- heavy engineering solutions for mining industry, transport and infrastructure
- exhibitions, displays, retail and point of sale
- residential and commercial traffic management solutions
- revolving restaurants and rooms.

Our expertise and experience ensures we can assist with many projects, whether that be working with builders, developers, local government or architects to provide client project movement solutions. The same expertise and experience has seen us attain preferred supplier status with many organisations.

As well as our reputation for excellence in the delivery, quality and management of our projects, our private ownership structure sets us apart within the industry. Our clients enjoy the benefits of a partnership that directly involves key executives.

Australian Turntable Company provides personal customer service from initial enquiry through to construction and project delivery while Paul plays an integral role in the ongoing growth and management of the company

Innovation drives the core essence of the organisation. Utilising the latest computerised robotic technology, advanced CAD and 3D software systems and laser technology, we deliver project manufacture to exacting specifications to suit individual needs. Our pride in our technological achievements can be seen in the recent completion of a state-of-the-art premises that ensures our projects are delivered to ISO9001:2008 standards.

Under the vision and direction of the Chapmans, Australian Turntable Company continues to grow. While we are proud of what we have achieved, we are excited about the future as we progress with significant new initiatives.
